February 7, 2018

Dear Grant Mullins,

The Center for Strategic and International Studies (CSIS) Global Food Security Project is pleased to extend an invitation to you to join our Congressional staff delegation trip to Ghana from February 17 – 24, 2017. Your experience with agricultural development and foreign assistance would be an asset to both the trip and the post travel report.

The CSIS Global Food Security Project provides long-term, strategic guidance to policy makers to ensure that U.S. foreign assistance programs are efficient, effective, and sustainable. The project studies and highlights the impact of global food security on critical U.S. strategic interests, such as political stability and economic prosperity, through desk and field research, analytic publications, and public and private events. This is our second Congressional delegation trip to look at the effectiveness of Feed the Future programs; last year we traveled to Senegal with five bipartisan, bicameral congressional staff. We have updated this invitation letter to accurately reflect that your travel will be funded by the CSIS Global Food Security Project's general budget.

As an official participant of this delegation, you will have the opportunity to engage in a wide variety of discussions with on-the-ground implementers of the Feed the Future initiative. You will meet with the U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID) Mission in Ghana, along with Peace Corps Volunteers and USAID implementing partners, both non-profit and for profit, that work to implement Feed the Future goals. You will end your trip by meeting with U.S. Embassy staff, where you will have the opportunity to share your findings, and discuss future food security efforts in Ghana.

Additionally, as a participant of the delegation you will contribute to a public CSIS report that will highlight the group's experience and observations. This may include some note-taking in the field, as well as feedback and edits on the draft after we return home. Your name will be listed on the report, but it will be clear that the views expressed are solely those of the CSIS authors.

Please feel free to contact Gillian Locke at GLocke@csis.org or (202) 775-3235 with any questions you may have. We look forward to having you on this delegation trip.

Sincerely,

Kimberly Flowers
